SAVING FACE

Dermatologist Dr. Layne Nisenbaum helps keep Palm Beach’s beautiful people beautiful.

Text by Kim Mosley

Stunningly savvy and undeniably wealthy Palm Beachers look to the specialized expertise of Dr. Layne Nisenbaum to put their best face forward. Just inside his “Zen-style” Island Dermatology and Laser Institute in Palm Beach, a “fountain of youth” aura lingers amidst a tranquil setting and the latest in state-of-the-art technology. Dedicating his practice to providing responsible skin care with a belief that beauty is all encompassing, Nisenbaum offers cosmetic dermatology procedures for the face and body. Oh, yes, and he’d probably never be caught dead without his regimen of dual growth factor/corrective complex serum and DNA repair sunscreen every day.

And why would he? Those of us indulging in the sunny shores of Palm Beach, along with thousands of people across the globe can’t get enough of the latest anti-aging and non-surgical treatments for the body beautiful. Nisenbaum himself, the fair-haired physician with his flawless complexion, is proof positive that an inter-related mind-body-spirit connection that encompasses a nutritional, holistic and anti-aging regimen perfectly suits the Palm Beach lifestyle.

Nisenbaum’s dedication to skin care has become an Island essential. Living in Palm Beach, but traveling to Europe in search of the latest cutting-edge treatments and breakthroughs in skin care products, the good doctor moves with ease back and forth between continents. Though ever involved with his practice, Nisenbaum still finds time to relax and rejuvenate his spirit in true Island style on the social circuit, where he often rubs elbows with his patients. “It’s always nice to see them,” he says. “I believe in a strong one-on-one relationship with all of my patients ... every patient is special.” ■
